

SHOULD WE NAME THE MOON?

All the other moons in our solar system have names. Four of Jupiter's moons are named Io, Europa, Ganymede and Callisto. Saturn has Pan and Dione and Phoebe, among many others, all with names. Only Earth's moons are not named.

Take a survey. How many people in your class think the moon should be named? What percentage is that of the whole class?*

Response	# of people	Percentage of whole
Number who said "Yes, we should name the moon."
Number who said "No, we should not name the moon"?
Total amounts

Now pick three names. Ask each of your classmates which name they prefer. What percentage of the class picked each name?*

Response	# of people	Percentage of whole
Name #1:
Name #2:
Name #3:
Total amounts

*To find out what percentage gave you a specific answer, divide the number who chose it by the number of people you asked. For example, if you asked 50 people if they wanted vanilla ice cream and 45 of them said yes; 45 divided by 50 equals 90%.
