

“The first case reported was four days ago,” said Lestrade. “It was at the shop of Morse Hudson, who has a place for the sale of pictures and statues in the Kennington Road. The assistant had left the front shop for an instant, when he heard a crash, and hurrying in he found a plaster bust of Napoleon, which stood with several other works of art upon the counter, lying shivered into fragments.

Thus was Inspector Holmes’ called onto the case. Using his awesome powers of observation and deduction he seeks out the clues and solves the case. Match wits with the famous detective and see if you can solve the case before he does.
